

Making 5

Each player gets a copy of the snowman game board.

They need a die and game pieces. I use themed erasers to keep things festive. Before I give the die to students I cover the number 6 side with a sticker like the one pictured to the right. I tell them that this side is zero.

To play the game, students roll the die and count the dots. They determine how many more are needed to make 5, then they cover the number that is needed to make 5 on their game board. For example, if a student rolls a 1, they would cover the 4 on their game board. If a student rolls the same number again they lose their turn. The first player to cover all of the snowmen on their board is the winner.
